Hoofland's German Bitters,

AND

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN TONIC.

The Great Remedies for all Diseases of the LIVER, STOMACH, OR DIGESTIVE ORGANS.

Hoofland's German Bitters

Is composed of the pure juices (or, as they are medically termed, Extracts) of Roots, Herbs, and Barks, making a preparation highly concentrated, and entirely free from alcoholic admixture of any kind.

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN TONIC

Is a combination of all the ingredients of the Bitters with the purest quality of Santa Cruz Rum, Orange, &c., making one of the most pleasant and agreeable remedies ever offered to the public.

Those preferring a Medicine free from Alcoholic admixture, will use

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS.

Those who have no objection to the combination of the Bitters, as stated, will use

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN TONIC.

They are both equally good, and contain the same medicinal virtues, the choice between the two being a mere matter of taste, the Tonic being the most palatable.

The stomach, from a variety of causes, such as Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Nervous Debility, etc., is very apt to have its functions deranged. The Liver, sympathizing so closely as it does with the Stomach, then becomes affected, the result of which is that the patient suffers from several or more of the following diseases

Constipation, Flatulence, Inward Piles, Fullness of Blood to the Head, Acidity of the Stomach, Nausea, Heart-burn, Disgust for Food, Fulness or Weight in the Stomach, Sour Eructations, Sinking or Fluttering at the Pit of the Stomach, Swimming of the Head, Hurried or Difficult Breathing, Fluttering at the Heart, Choking or Suffocating Sensations when in a Lying Posture, Dimness of Vision, Dots or Webs before the Sight, Dull Pain in the Head, Deficiency of Perspiration, Yellowness of the Skin and Eyes, Pain in the Side, Back, Chest, Limbs, etc., Sudden Flushes of Heat, Burning in the Flesh, Constant Imaginings of Evil, and Great Depression of Spirits

The sufferer from these diseases should exercise the greatest caution in the selection of a remedy for his case, purchasing only that which he is assured from his investigations and inquiries possesses true merit, is skilfully compounded, is free from injurious ingredients, and has established for itself a reputation for the cure of these diseases. In this connection we would submit those well-known remedies—

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS,

AND

PREPARED BY Dr. C. M. JACKSON, PHILADELPHIA, PA

Twenty-two years since they were first introduced in to this country from Germany, during which time they have undoubtedly performed more cures, and benefited suffering humanity to a greater extent, than any other remedies known to the public.

These remedies will effectually cure Liver Complaint, Jaundice, Dyspepsia, Chronic or Nervous Debility Chronic Diarrhœa, Diseases of the Kidneys, and all Diseases arising from a Disordered Liver, Stomach, or Intestines.

DEBILITY,

Resulting from any Cause whatever; PROSTRATION OF THE SYSTEM, induced by Severe Labor, Hardships, Exposure, Fevers, etc.

There is no mystic extant equal to these remedies in such cases. A tone and vigor is imparted to the whole system, the appetite strengthened, food is enjoyed, the stomach digests promptly, the blood is purified, the complexion becomes sound and healthy, pale yellow tinge is eradicated from the eyes, a bloom is given to the cheeks, and the weak and nervous invalid becomes a strong and healthy being.

PERSONS ADVANCED IN LIFE,

And feeling the hand of time weighing heavily upon them, with all its attendant ills, will find in the use of this BITTERS, or the TONIC, an elixir that will instil new life into their veins, restore in a measure the energy and ardor of more youthful days, build up their shrunken forms, and give health and happiness to their remaining years.

NOTICE.

It is a well-established fact that fully one-half of the female portion of our population are seldom in the enjoyment of good health; or, to use their own expression, "never feel well." They are languid, devoid of all energy, extremely nervous, and have no appetite.

To the class of persons the BITTERS, or the TONIC, is especially recommended.

WEAK AND DELICATE CHILDREN

Are made strong by the use of either of these remedies They will cure every case of MARASMUS, without fail.

Thousands of certificates have accumulated in the hands of the proprietor, but space will allow of the publication of but a few. These, it will be observed, are men of note and of such standing that they must be believed.

TESTIMONIALS.

HON. GEO. W. WOODWARD,

Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Penna., writes:

Philadelphia, March 16, 1867.

"I find 'Hoofland's German Bitters' is a good tonic useful in diseases of the digestive organs, and of great benefit in cases of debility, and want of nervous action in the system. Yours truly,
GEO. W. WOODWARD."

HON. JAMES THOMPSON,

Judge of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania.

Philadelphia, April 28, 1866.

"I consider 'Hoofland's German Bitters' a valuable medicine in case of attacks of Indigestion or Dyspepsia, I can certify this from my experience of it.
Yours, with respect,
JAMES THOMPSON."

FROM REV. JOSEPH H. KENNARD, D. D.,

Pastor of the Tenth Baptist Church, Philadelphia.

Dr. Jackson—Dear Sir:—I have been frequently requested to connect my name with recommendations of different kinds of medicines, but regarding the practice as out of my appropriate sphere, I have in all cases declined; but with a clear proof in various instances and particularly in my own family of the usefulness of Dr. Hoofland's German Bitters, I depart for once from my usual course, to express my full conviction that, for general debility of the system, and especially for Liver Complaint, it is a safe and valuable preparation. In some cases it may fail; but rarely, I doubt not, it will be very beneficial to those who suffer from the above causes.
Yours, very respectfully,
J. H. KENNARD,
Eighth, below Coates st.

FROM REV. E. D. FENDALL,

Assistant Editor Christian Chronicle, Philadelphia.

I have derived decided benefit from the use of Hoofland's German Bitters, and feel it my privilege to recommend them as a most valuable tonic, to all who are suffering from general debility or from diseases arising from derangement of the liver. Yours, truly,
E. D. FENDALL.

THE UNFINISHED PRAYER.

"Now I lay me"—say it darling;
"Lay me," lisped the tiny lips
Of my daughter, kneeling, bending
O'er her folded finger-tips.

"Down to sleep"—"To sleep," she murmured,
And the curly head drooped low;
"I pray the Lord"—I gently added,
"You can say it all, I know."

"Pray the Lord"—the words came faintly,
Fainter still—"My soul to keep,"
Then the tired head fairly nodded,
And the child was fast asleep.

But the dewy eyes half opened,
When I clasped her to my breast,
And the dear voice softly whispered,
"Mamma, God knows all the rest."

O, the trusting, sweet confiding
Of the child heart! Would that I
Thus might trust my Heavenly Father,
He who hears my feeblest cry.

A STORY FOR THE LITTLE FOLKS.

TESSA'S SURPRISE.

Little Tessa sat alone by the fire, waiting for her father to come home from work.—The children were fast asleep, all four in the big bed behind the curtain; the wind blew hard outside, and the snow beat on the window panes; the room was large, and the fire so small and feeble, that it didn't half warm the little bare toes peeping out of the old shoes on the hearth.

Tessa's father was an Italian plaster worker, very poor, but kind and honest. The mother had died not long ago, and left twelve-year old Tessa to take care of the little children. She tried to be very wise and motherly, and worked for them like any little woman; but it was so hard to keep the small bodies warm and fed, and the small souls good and happy, that poor Tessa was often at her wit's end. She always waited for her father, no matter how tired she was, so that he might find his supper warm, a bit of fire, and a loving little face to welcome him. Tessa thought over her troubles at these quiet times, and made her plans; for her father left things to her a good deal, and she had no friends but Tommo, the harp-boy, up stairs, and a lively cricket, who lived in the chimney. To-night her face was very sober, and her pretty brown eyes very thoughtful as she stared at the fire, and knit her brows, as if perplexed. She was not thinking of her old shoes, nor the empty closet, nor the boys' ragged clothes, just then. No; she had a fine plan in her good little head, and was trying to discover how she could carry it out.

You see, Christmas was coming in a week; and she had set her heart on putting something in the children's stockings, as the mother used to do, for while she lived things were comfortable. Now, Tessa had not a penny in the world, and didn't know how to get one, for all the father's earnings had to go for food, fire and rent.

"If there were only fairies, ah, how heavenly that would be; for then, I should tell them all I wish, and, pop! behold the fine things in my lap!" said Tessa to herself. "I must earn the money; there is no one to give it to me, and I cannot beg.—But, what can I do, so small and stupid and shy as I am? I must find some way to give the little ones a nice Christmas. I must! I must!" and Tessa pulled her long hair, as if that would help her to think.

But it didn't, and her heart got heavier; for it did seem hard, that in a great city full of fine things, there should be none for poor Nono, Sep and little Speranza. Just as Tessa's tears began to tumble off her eyelashes on to her brown cheeks, the cricket began to chirp. Of course, he didn't say a word; but it really did seem as if he had answered her question almost as well as a fairy: for, before he had piped a dozen shrill notes, an idea popped into Tessa's head—such a truly splendid idea, that she clapped her hands, and burst out laughing.—"I'll do it! I'll do it! if father will let me," she said to herself, smiling and nodding at the fire. "Tommo will like to have me go with him and sing, while he plays his harp in the streets. I know many songs, and may get money if I am not frightened; for people throw pennies to other little girls who only play the tambourine. Yes, I will try; and then, if I do well, the little ones shall have a Merry Christmas."

Next morning, the sun shone, but the cold wind blew, and the snow lay thick in the streets. As soon as her father was gone, Tessa flew about, and put everything in nice order, telling the children she was going out for the day, and they were to mind Tommo's mother, who would see about the fire and the dinner; for the good woman loved Tessa, and entered into her little plans with all her heart. Nono and Guiseppe, or Sep, as they called him, wondered what she was going away for, and little Ranza cried at being left; but Tessa told them they would know all about it in a week, and have a fine time, if they were good; so they kissed her all round, and let her go.

Poor Tessa's heart beat fast, as she trudged away with Tommo, who slung his harp over his shoulder, and gave her his hand.—It was rather a dirty hand, but so kind that Tessa clung to it, and kept looking up at the friendly brown face for encouragement.

"We go first to the cafe, where many French and Italians eat breakfast. They like my music, and often give me sips of hot coffee, which I like much. You too shall have the sips, and perhaps the pennies, for these people are greatly kind," said Tommo, leading her into a large smoky place, where many people sat at little tables, eating and drinking. "See, now, have no fear; give them 'Bella Monica;' that is merry, and will make them laugh," whispered Tommo, tuning his harp.

For a moment, Tessa felt so frightened that she wanted to run away; but she remembered the empty stockings at home, and the lonely place, and she resolved not to give it up. One fat old Frenchman nodded to her, and it seemed to help her very much; for she began to sing before she thought, and that was the hardest part of it. He voice trembled, and her cheeks grew redder and redder as she went on; but she kept her eyes fixed on her old shoes, and so got through without breaking down, which was very nice. The people laughed, for the song was merry; and the fat man smiled, and nodded again. This gave her courage to try another, and she sung better and better each time; for Tommo played his best, and kept whispering to her, "Yes, we go well; this is fine. They will give the money and the blessed coffee."

So they did; for when the little concert was over, several men put pennies in the cap Tessa offered, and the fat man took her on his knee, and ordered a mug of coffee, and some bread and butter for them both.—This quite won her heart; and when they left the cafe, she kissed her hand to the old Frenchman, and said to her friend, "How kind they are! I like this very much; and now it is not hard."

But Tommo shook his curly head, and answered, soberly, "Yes, I took you there first, for they love music, and are of our country; but up among the great houses we shall not always do well. The people there are busy, or hard, or idle, and care nothing for harps and songs. Do not skip and laugh too soon; for the day is long, and we have but twelve pennies yet."

All this afternoon, the two friends wandered about, singing and playing, and gathering up their small harvest. At dusk, they went home,—Tessa so hoarse, she could hardly speak, and so tired, she fell asleep over her supper. But she had made half a dollar, for Tommo divided the money fairly, and she felt rich with her share. The other days were very much like this; sometimes they made more, sometimes less, but Tommo always "went halves;" and Tessa kept on, in spite of cold and weariness, for her plans grew as her earnings increased, and now she hoped to get useful things, instead of candy and toys alone.

On the day before Christmas, she made herself tidy as she could, for she hoped to earn a good deal. She tied a bright scarlet handkerchief over the old hood, and the brilliant color set off her brown cheeks and bright eyes, as well as the pretty black braids of her hair. Tommo's mother lent her a pair of boots so big, that they

GOV. GEARY was seriously ill last week, so ill that visitors were not admitted. On Sunday Dr. GOODMAN, of Philadelphia, his surgeon during the war, was telegraphed for. Although still confined to bed, he is said to be out of danger, and will probably be able to attend to business in a few days.

SENATOR STEWART, from the Senate Judiciary Committee, on Friday last reported the following proposed amendment to the Constitution:

ARTICLE 15. The right of citizens of the United States to vote and hold office shall not be denied or abridged by the United States, or any State, on account of race, color or previous condition of servitude.

Congress will probably be brought to an early vote on the proposed amendment. It will pass both houses by a decided vote.

ON the 13th inst., the two houses of the Legislature met in joint session to elect a State Treasurer, to succeed Gen. Irwin. On first ballot, Robert W. Mackey received 78 votes; Charles W. Cooper, 51; and Morrow B. Lowry of Erie, 1—that of Senator Fisher of Lancaster. Mr. Mackey was therefore declared duly elected State Treasurer for one year. Mr. Mackey is Cashier of one of the Pittsburg Banks, and is represented to be a gentleman of high character and superior financial abilities. He is of course a Republican.

THE Judiciary Committee of the U. S. Senate has decided to report against the admission of the Hon. JOSHUA HILL as Senator from Georgia. They take this action on the ground that his election was illegal, as the Legislature, previous to his election, expelled a number of its colored members in an illegal manner. This decision will of course occasion lengthy debate when the report is made, and finally dispose of the question regarding the eligibility of colored men to hold office under the constitutions of the reconstructed States.

THE Commissioners, consisting of Messrs. Derrickson, Hall and M'Veagh, appointed to revise the Civil Code of the State, are at present comparing their work as far as they have progressed. A report will be made to the Legislature, of the number and character of the bills prepared, and an abstract given of each section. The entire revision is to be completed by November, 1870, and reported to the Legislature of 1871. The present Legislature will probably do nothing towards enacting into laws the bills prepared by the Commissioners.

THE report of the Adjutant General, D. B. MCCREARY, shows that in 1866 there were only 8 military companies in the State; in January, 1868, there were 88, and on the 1st of December last, there were 77, of which number, 51 were in Philadelphia. In 53 counties of the State there are no military organizations whatever. York county reports three companies; Adams county two—the "Gettysburg Zouaves," and the "Franklin Zouaves." The number of enrolled Militia in Adams county is 1,600, and Franklin 4,823. No report from York or Cumberland.

WE are glad to notice that our Republican friends at Harrisburg are moving in the matter of a Registry law. A joint committee of the two Houses has been appointed to digest and report a bill on the subject, consisting of Messrs. Errett, Stinson, Olmstead, Davis and Connell, on the part of the Senate, and Messrs. Strang, Nicholson, Brown of Huntingdon, M'Collough and Rogers, on the part of the House of Representatives. The Democracy will of course fight any bill that may be agreed on, however reasonable, that may tend to break up their favorite pastime of ballot-stuffing and fraud. This, however, should only incite our friends to put through a bill thorough and searching in allits provisions.

HON. JOHN SCOTT, who is to succeed Mr. Buckalew in the Senate, is cordially endorsed by the Press generally as a gentleman of unblemished character, high-minded and honorable. A correspondent of the American Presbyterian thus alludes to his Christian character:

"I am no less elated as a Pennsylvanian in the hope of seeing the State represented by an able, consistent and Christian man on that floor, so often disgraced, and where Pennsylvania has for so long a course of years been pat to open shame. The Hon. John Scott will undoubtedly carry with him his Christianity and his contempt of the partizan politics, and will bring no disgrace upon the State, or the church in which he is a ruling elder and Sabbath-school Superintendent."

ON last Thursday morning Caldwell's marble block of buildings, on the corner of Ninth and Chestnut Sts., Philadelphia, was entirely destroyed by fire. The buildings contained Caldwell's jewelry establishment, Howell's paper-hangings store and Ormes' carpet rooms. The building was of marble, and considered the finest and handsomest structure in the city. The fire was discovered about one o'clock, and spread with great rapidity. The Continental Hotel and Girard House were, for a time, threatened with destruction. Caldwell loses $340,000, with an insurance of $165,000; Howell $285,000, insurance $145,000; Orne $130,000, fully insured. The fire is supposed to have originated in the bursting of a boiler in the basement of Caldwell's building. Two of his employees, sleeping in the establishment, are missing.

THERE are three contested election cases before the Legislature, all growing out of the Philadelphia frauds at the October election. Wm. M. Bunn, Republican, contests the seat of Daniel Witham, Democrat, returned as elected to the House. M. Russell Thayer, Republican, contests the election of Thomas Greenbank, Democrat, returned as elected by a majority of 125 to the office of Associate Judge of the District Court of Philadelphia; and Wm. L. Hirst, Democrat, contests the election of Judge Hare, Republican, returned as elected President Judge of the District Court by 25 majority.—Committees have been appointed in each case, and it is to be hoped their investigations will be sufficiently thorough to expose the rascality by which the Democracy carried Philadelphia at the October election.

THE Legislature of Pennsylvania for some years has been soundly abused for alleged corruption and extravagance. Last year the Republican Press of the State was very severe in its animadversions, and it was to be hoped that there would such reforms as to meet popular demands. We regret to see that the present Legislature is disposed to brave public sentiment, by reckless extravagance. At the beginning of the present session Messrs. Rauch & Cochran, of Lancaster, made a proposition to do the pasting and folding of both Houses for $7,000, and offered satisfactory bonds for the faithfull performance of the contract.—Last session the pasting and folding in the House alone cost the taxpayers the sum of $37,000, just $30,000 more than these gentlemen asked for doing the same work for both House and Senate. As this proposition would have ousted the numerous pasters and folders, and prevented the members from securing comfortable positions for their friends, no attention was paid to it.

Last year, in response to the demands of the Press, an act was passed to abolish the "sinecures," in future. It provided for the appointment of 12 pasters and folders—10 at a salary of $600 and 2 at $800 each. But it seems all the "pets of the members could not be accommodated in the distribution of offices this winter, and the House, in defiance of the act of 1868, has ordered the appointment of 27 additional pasters and folders! It is but proper to say that a portion of the Republican members strenuously resisted the outrage, and that the Democratic members divided on the question. We should like to see the yeas and nays, and to whom we are indebted for this renewal of reckless legislation which in past years has awakened so much just indignation.

ON Friday last the President transmitted to Congress copies of three treaties which have just been concluded between our Minister at the Court of St. James and Earl Clarendon.—The first treaty is in the form of a protocol, and relates to the subject of naturalization in the two countries. The reason assigned for making this treaty conditional is that the subject of naturalization in England is a matter of common law, and requires the sanction of Parliament before he Ministry can proclaim it. The provisions of the protocol are similar to those of the treaty on the same subject made by Mr. BANCROFT with Germany. The second treaty relates to the dispute about the boundary of the San Juan Island.—The third is the draft of the treaty signed by EARL CLARENDON and Minister JOHNSON on Friday last. Mr. SEWARD is very anxious to have this matter of the Alabama claims settled before his retirement, hence his haste in sending to the Senate merely the draft of the treaty, and not the official document. The precise provisions of the Alabama treaty are of course not known, as the Senate sits in secret session while considering treaties. The following are said to be the substance of them:

Article 1 The two Governments agree to the settlement of all claims and differences which have risen since the Convention of 1853.

Article 2 provides for a commission of four persons, each Government being entitled to two representatives, this commission to agree upon a plan of settlement.

Article 3 provides that a majority of the Commission shall decide the questions involved.

Article 4 provides for cases of disagreement in the Commission. In such an event the two Governments shall choose an umpire. The President of the United States shall act for the United States, but the umpire selected shall not be qualified unless confirmed by the Senate.

Article 5 provides that in the event of the refusal of the umpire to decide, the question shall be settled by lot in presence of the Commission.

Article 6 excludes from the jurisdiction of the Commission all cases arising from claims which have been adjudicated by Courts of Admiralty.

Article 7 provides that claimants shall have first proved that they are British subjects, that they preserved strict neutrality during the war, and did not aid the South.

Article 8. The sessions of the Commission are to be held in Washington.

The Washington letter writers say the provisions of this treaty are not acceptable to leading Senators and that it will fail in the Senate.

ELECTIONS for U. S. Senators were held on Tuesday by the Legislatures of New York, Maine, Delaware, Missouri, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Pennsylvania and Michigan, with the following result:

New York—Ex-Gov. Fenton, to succeed Morgan.

Maine—Hon. Hannibal Hamlin, to succeed Morrill.

Delaware—James A. Bayard, short term, Thos. F. Bayard, long term.

Missouri—Gen. Carl Shurz, to succeed Henderson.

Massachusetts—Sen. Sumner, re-elected.

Minnesota—Senator Ramsey, re-elected.

Pennsylvania—Hon. John Scott, to succeed Buckalew.

Michigan—Senator Chandler, re-elected.

These results have peculiar significance. Gov. Morgan, of New York, whom Gov. Fenton displaces, is a Republican, but has to go under by reason of his relations to Mr. Seward and Thurlow Weed. Hamlin, of Maine, succeeds Mr. Morrill, Republican, whose only offence was his intimacy with Senator Fessenden who voted against Impeachment. Henderson, of Missouri, who voted with Fessenden, has leave to stay at home, Carl Shurz taking his place. Benton, Hamlin, and Shurz are all progressive Republicans.

Thus one by one the Republicans who have had anything to do with Johnsonism, direct or indirect, go by the board, their places being supplied by men of grit. Delaware elects father and son to the Senate, the former for the short term, the latter for the long term.

In Indiana, where a successor to Mr. Hendricks is to be chosen, Lieut. Gov. Cumback received the Republican caucus nomination, but there being disaffection a sufficient number bolted to prevent an election on Tuesday.

Nebraska failed to elect, but Mr. Tipton, Republican, will doubtless be re-elected. Carpenter, Republican, will succeed Doolittle from Wisconsin. Stewart, Republican, will be re-elected from Nevada.

IN the Supreme Court of the United States on Wednesday Chief Justice CHASE read the opinion of the Court in the New York Bank cases, deciding that certificates of indebtedness and United States notes or greenbacks are exmpt from State taxation. This decision is important and settles a long mooted question, on which there have been different rulings by State Courts.

THE Democrats in the Pennsylvania Legislature cast their votes for Wm. A. Wallace for U. S. Senate—Wallace beating Buckalew in caucus. It was an empty honor, however, the Republicans having elected to send John Scott, of Huntington, as Buckalew's successor.

THE Johnstown Tribune has been enlarged, and is now one of the largest as it is one of the ablest Republican county journals in the State.

THE President on Tuesday sent to the Senate a message in answer to the resolution of that body inquiring by what authority of law his amnesty proclamation was made. He answers that it was by virtue of the authority vested in him by the Constitution, the second section of which provides that the President "shall have power to grant reprieves and pardons for offences against the United States, except in cases of impeachment." The President cites from precedents established by Washington in 1795, and followed by Presidents Adams in 1800, Madison in 1815, and Lincoln in 1863, and by the present Executive in 1865, 1867 and 1868, to show that the proclamation of the 25th ult. is in accordance with the judicial expositions of the authority thus conferred upon the Executive. Senator Ferry held that the President had given his authority to issue pardons, but no authority for the issue of the proclamations of amnesty. The subject was referred to the Judiciary Committee.

SECRETARY SEWAR'S scheme for the purchase of St. Thomas hangs fire, the Senate being said to be opposed to it. Mr. SEWARD concluded the purchase without consulting Congress, agreeing to pay Denmark $7,00,000 for the island.

OUR representative, Dr. DILL, is on three of the House Committees, Agriculture, Accounts and Banks.

He then picked it up and held it over a hot flre in the stove, until its whole body was burned to a blister. Weathers was arrested.

THE REBEL OFFICIAL RECORDS.

[For the Star and Sentinel.

Edward A. Pollard, the Southern historian, contributes a paper to the January number of Lippincott's Monthly on "The Flight and Capture of Jefferson Davis," in which he makes the important statement that before Davis evacuated Richmond he had all the papers of the Confederate government examined by intelligent and confidential friends of the rebellion, and all of them of value, including the correspondence from friends of the cause in Europe and in the Northern States, were culled out and conveyed out of Richmond, and deposited in a place were they remain concealed at this time and will probably not be unearthed in this generation." The papers that were captured and brought to Washington, and which are now preserved there under the title of "Rebel Archives," Mr. Pollard pronounces to be "historically worthless." The papers that were conveyed away and concealed embraced "a large secret correspondence" of Davis with persons in the North; "that he had sources of comfort, information and advice there," &c. "Of the extent of such correspondence," remarks Mr. Pollard, "the popular imagination has probably fallen short. As an instance of the volume of "disloyalty" and venality in the North, the writer may mention the case of a single secret document which he was once permitted to see in Richmond, wherein certain parties offered to assist the Confederacy, by supplying its Western armies for a whole year from the granaries and magazines of the North." If such correspondence still exist, it is to be hoped it may yet see the light. Every one, however, knows that there were thousands of men through the North, all through the rebellion, who were aiding and abetting it to the full extent of their power, and who were tireless in its service.

Mr. Pollard is very severe on Davis for his manner of leaving Richmond. He accuses him of caring only for his own safety. He says:

"He nervously prepared at his house his private baggage, assisted by Mrs. Davis, and he never ventured in the streets until, under cover of the night, he got unobserved on the train that was to convey him from Richmond. He did not forget the gold in the Treasury, that amounting to less than forty thousand dollars, it had been proposed some days before, in Congress, to distribute as largesses to the discontented soldiers; but Mr. Davis had insisted upon reserving it for exigencies, and it was now secured in his baggage. He did forget his sword.—That, usually present from some of his admirers in England, had been sent to the Richmond Armory for some repairs; it was abandoned to the fire there. The last seen of this relic of the Southern Confederacy was a twisted and gnarled stem of steel, on private exhibition in a lager beer saloon in Richmond, garnished with a certificate that it was what remained of Jeff. Davis' sword, and that the curiosity might be purchased for two hundred dollars. Whether the retailer of lager has yet disposed of his treasure we do not know."

The writer thus describes the last council of the Confederacy:

"Mr. Davis reached Abbeville on the first of May. So far he had been accompanied by the fragments of five brigades, amounting in number to less that one thousand men, and reorganized into two battalions, at the front and in rear of the long train which signalled his flight and foolishly obstructed his effort at escape. There were already painful evidences of the demoralization of the escort, and the story told almost at every mile, by stragglers from Johnston's command, was not calculated to inspire them. At Abbeville Mr. Davis resolved upon a council of war. It was composed of the five brigade commanders, and Gen. Braxton Bragg (for the year past the "military adviser" of the President) was admitted to this last scene of the deliberations of the Lost Cause.

In the council Mr. Davis spoke with more than his accustomed facility and earnestness, inspired by hope, without volubility or prolixity, which he could not command, surpassing plausibility. The South, he declared, was suffering from a panic; it yet had resources to continue the war; it was for those who remained with arms in their hands to give an example to encourage others; such an act of devotion, besides being the most sublime thing in history, might yet save the country, and erect again its defeated resolution. "It is but necessary," he said, "that brave men like those in council should renew their determination to continue the war; they will be a nucleus for rapid re-enforcements, and will raise the signal of re-animation for the whole country." No one of the council answered him at length; the replies of the commanders were almost sunk to whispers, the scene was becoming painful; and it was at last agreed that each in his turn should announce his decision. Each answered slowly, reluctantly, in the negative; the only words added were that though they considered the war hopeless, they would not disband their men until they had guarded the President to a place of safety.

"No," exclaimed Mr. Davis, passionately, "I will listen to no proposition for my safety. I appeal to you for the cause of the country." Again he urged the commanders to accept his views.

"We were silent," says general Basil Duke, one of the council, 'for we could not agree with him, and we respected him too much to reply.'

Mr. Davis yet stood erect, raised his hands to his head, as if in pain, and suddenly exclaimed, 'all hope is gone!' adding thoughtfully, 'I see that the friends of the South are destined to consent to their degradation;' and then sweeping the company with a pround and despairing glance, he attempted to pass from the room.

But the throng was too much for his feeble organization. His face was white with anger and disappointment, and the mist of unshed tears was in his eyes—tears which pride struggled to keep back. The sentiment that all was lost went through his heart like the slow and measured thrust of a sword; as the wound sunk into it, it left him speechless; loose and tottering, he would have fallen to the floor, had not General Breckenridge ended the scene by leading him faltering from the room. In a dead and oppressive silence the deserted leader, the fallen chief, secured a decent retreat for agonies which tears only could relieve."

Alexander H. Stephens, the rebel Vice President, was always bitterly hostile to Davis. Pollard tells how he treated the fallen President on the arrival of the latter at the place of Stephen's residence:

"The cruelest neglect or insult of his misfortune happened in passing through the small town of Griswoldville, the home of Alexander H. Stephens. Mr. Davis, now an object of sympathy, worn, deserted, remained two or three days in Griswoldville; he might there, at least, have expected that one who had been so near him in office as the Vice President of the Confederacy, would have visited him, to tender some hospitality, or to offer an honorable condolence. Mr. Stephens never came near him, never sent him token or message, to his shame be it mentioned; for surely a mean nature is never more despicable than in its treatment of misfortune, and its cowardly refuge, on such occasions, is in old resentments or in selfish calculations."

SINGULAR CASE.—The Muncy Luminary says: Carrie Feister, a little daughter of Mr. Reuben Feister, of this borough, when but seven months old, swallowed a diaper pin. No one was present when she swallowed it, but the fact that the pin was missing and the child was seized with choking spells, and for twelve hours remained in a critical condition, left no doubt on the minds of the family as to what had become of the pin. She, however, partially recovered at the time, but from that time until the present her health has been delicate. At intervals she has been quite sick, coughing and throwing up considerable quantities of corruption. During the past summer it was thought the child had gone into consumption, and was so ill that her recovery was regarded as next to impossible. She rallied again, however, and although far from well, was able to be about.

On Sunday, December 27th, she was seized with a violent fit of coughing, which lasted for some time. Finally, she suddenly put her fingers into her mouth and drew forth the missing pin. The pin is about two inches in length, with a head $\frac{1}{2}$ of an inch long, and $\frac{1}{2}$ of an inch in circumference. It is black with rust, and when coughed up was covered with corruption. Carrie is now nearly nine years old, so that this pin has been embedded in her lungs (as it is believed) about 8 years and 4 months—all this time abscesses forming and breaking, and rendering her life miserable. We are glad to add that since its removal her health has been materially improved.

RAILROAD MEETING AT BENDERSVILLE.

[For the STAR AND SENTINEL.

Pursuant to call an adjourned meeting of the citizens of Menallen met at the Hall in Bendersville at one o'clock.

The committee appointed to invite J. S. Gitt, Civil Engineer, and others, reported their duty as having been attended to, and and introduced Mr. Gitt, who gave in detail his views upon the projected road, setting forth the benefits of a Railroad to the community, enhancing the value of property, enabling farmers to take advantage of market prices, &c. Mr. Gitt referred to Gettysburg, Hanover and Littlestown, and the progress of those places, growing directly out of the construction of their Railroads. He said that the Cumberland Valley Railroad will some day form an important link in a chain of Railroads from the prolific fields of the South and the Work Shops of the North.

From a view of the line made on the day previous he considered the project a feasible one, there being but little grading and at an average of 50 feet to mile.

Other speakers followed who spoke of the road as a pl asable enterprise, causing all to be sanguine of its success—a sufficient amount was at once subscribed to pay for an actual survey which will be made by Mr. Gitt during the next week.

The prospect is fair for an actual and early beginning of work upon the road. A committee is being appointed to consult with the officers and contractors of other roads with which this will connect. All are on the "qui vive" and confident that this, like all enterprises in which our citizens are engaged, will be carried to completion; and we predict that it will be completed.

Bendersville Pa. Jan. 16th 1869.

SUDDEN DEATH.—On the 4th instant, Andrew, son of John K. and Margaret Davis, of West Brandywine, died very suddenly. He was coming from school in company with his brother; he complained of feeling tired, and fell a short distance behind; upon his brother looking round, he saw him fall to the ground. The former ran to his side, and supposing that he had fainted, threw snow in his face with the hope of reviving him. Finding this brought no relief, he hastened to a house near by and told the lady of the house what had happened. She immediately proceeded to the spot where the unfortunate boy lay, but upon reaching his side, found that life was already extinct. The cause of his death we did not learn, but presume it was heart disease.—West Chester Republican.

Two students, about 20 years old, killed each other in a duel at Sharpsburg, Ky., after a school exhibition on Christmas Eve. They were warm personal friends, and had acquitted themselves with honor during the evening. After the exhibition was over they became excited by liquor and quarreled. Each took a pistol from a by-stander, and took positions on each side of a street, about 100 feet apart. The first fire of each was harmless. They then fired about the same time and were both instantly killed. One was shot through the head and the other through the heart. This occured about 12 o'clock at night, and on Saturday the two friends were followed to the same grave-yard.

A CRANBERRY patch in Centre Brook, Conn., produced last season, by actual measurement, one hundred and sixty barrels of fruit on an acre, or one barrel to each square rod, besides a large quantity which was gathered and may be seen under the ice. The rental of this land is less than $2 per acre.

NEWS OF NEIGHBORING COUNTIES.

BENDERSVILLE AND CUMBERLAND VALLEY RAILROAD.

Many of the readers of our county papers doubtless noticed with astonishment the account of a railroad meeting in Bendersville. The statement that the people of Menallen had held a public meeting for the purpose of agitating the question of a branch road to Bendersville was passing strange to some!

We have heard such questions as these asked, and statements of this character made: What will the people of Menallen attempt next? A telegraph, some suppose. What do they want with a railroad to Bendersville, a little town shut in by hills and rocks? What advantage would such a road afford? If they had a railroad they could not sustain it, one train per month would answer all their demands.

These persons then conclude that the railroad fever which has seized upon the people of Menallen, is but a temporary excitement, and that it will pass away with the winter. For the satisfaction of those thus doubting and for the encouragement of those engaged in the enterprise, we write. In the first place, we would positively assure those who doubt the sincerity of the people of Menallen, that the excitement is no temporary one. That they mean something their last meeting, held on the 16th inst., clearly proves. The large and enthusiastic crowd in attendance, the ordering of an immediate survey of the road, and the raising on the spot of the money necessary to defray the expenses of said survey, indicate that they are in earnest in this matter, just as they were a few yearsago, when they organized an Agricultural Society with a view of holding a Fair.

The question has been asked what advantages will this railroad, if built, afford. The general advantages of a railroad to a community, such as doubling or trebling the value of property and the opening of an easy avenue to large markets and cities, are well known and need not be referred to by us. An article in the "Star and Sentinel," of last week, on what Railroads do, doubtless freshened in the minds of its readers these advantages.

In addition to them, it will supply Adams county with a first class home market. This is what she has long been wanting: this is what will bring her out. The people, especially in the northern part of the County, have long been compelled to sell under price their produce at home, or else haul it to some distant market, and suffer from the loss of time and expense of hauling.

Again, the people need lime and coal, especially lime. While this railroad would open an excellent market for produce, it would furnish the farmer at home with lime at the price he now pays for it in Carlisle, thus relieving him of the loss of time and expense of hauling. He pays $12 for lime per hundred bushels in Carlisle, when he gets it to his home it has cost him $20. Will this not be a gain?

Again the reputation of the northern part of Adams county for produce raising, and fruit growing, is established. Let a railroad offer its advantages and encouragements, and it can and will be made yield two-thirds more.

But we must close our article. Joseph S. Gitt, Esq., will furnish the readers of the "Star and Sentinel," in a coming issue, an article concerning the road, and the ease of its construction. For the information of some, we may say, to construct the Railroad, the expenses will be about $80,000. The people of Adams county must raise one-half of the cost, the other half will be raised by a Railroad Company.

CUMBERLAND.—A daughter of Milton Hays, of Newville, aged 2 years 7 months, died last week from the effects of two small bones lodging in her windpipe. She had partaken of a small quantity of soup on the previous evening, and it is supposed the bones were in the soup. Several physicians were summoned, but they could not save the life of the little sufferer.

DAUPHIN.—The Harrisburg papers state that an association of gentlemen in that city have sent an agent to Fort Wayne, Ind., to purchase 2000 partridges to stock Dauphin county. The first installment will number 500. They are to be kept until spring, then turned loose.—On Thursday evening last, in Harrisburg, Kate Rupert, a young girl, universally esteemed, aged 17 years, was terribly burned by a kerosene lamp exploding, being upset; her life is despaired of.—The Pennsylvania monument at Harrisburg, to the soldiers from the State who fell in the war with Mexico, is to be dedicated on the 26th of May next.—The Dauphin county Democratic convention unanimously instructed her delegates for General George W. Orr, Esq., purchaser; Henry Feldman's Indian Queen Hotel, for $10,050 George Ludwig, purchaser.—On Sunday night an attempt was made to burn the dwelling of James C. Patton in Mercersburg. The family were roused by smoke reaching the bed rooms, the alarm was given, and the fire extinguished. The incendiaries had carefully arranged their plans. A large quantity of combustible material had been prepared in the cellar, saturated with Kerosene oil, from which a cord of candle week, satuated with kerosene, had been drawn through the cellar hole, and ignited on the outside. Fortunately, in drawing the cord it had broken and the fire failed to reach the pile of combustible material. Mr. Patton had been active in securing the arrest of the parties charged with the recent robbery in Mercersburg, and had received threating letters by the Post office.—Gottlier Koehler, a German living on West King Street Chambersburg, committed suicide on the 12th inst., by taking arsenic.—Andrew Dalrymple, Postmaster at Brown's Mills, absconded last week, leaving his securites to pay about $2500, he being a defaulter to the Government to that amount.

YORK.—Peter Goodling, of Washington township, was killed by the accidental explosion of a gun last week; returning from a gunning excursion he met an acquaintance named Clepper, and in a playful scuffle the gun went off, the load entering Goodling's stomach.—A vein of Coal is said to have been discovered on lands of Mr. Smith, in Spring Garden township. The following gentlemen have been elected Managers of the First National Bank of Hanover: Jacob Forney, John Grove, Isaac Loucke, Dr. J. P. Smith, A. S. Hines, Vincent O'Dodd, Geo. W. Klinefelter, Jacob Miller and John R. Stine.

Stahle, S. M. C.; W. E. Culp, J. M. C.; S. K. Foulk, P.; R. M. Schick, S. D.; Wm. McClean, J. D.; John Geiselman, Tyler.

DR. SWARTZ'S LECTURE.—The lecture by Rev. Dr. Swartz, of Carlisle, in Agricultural Hall, on Tuesday evening, was one of the best we have had. In discussing his theme, "No man owns deeper than he ploughs," the speaker developed the idea that success in all departments of labor, intellectual and physical, depends on individual effort and laborious toil. As the farmer plows deep or shallow must expect to reap corresponding crops, so in every sphere of life the harvest is dependant upon careful, pains-taking culture and labor. The lecture was interspersed with some capital illustrations, which "brought down the house." Dr. Swartz, in this first effort before our people, made a favorable impression. He is a pleasant speaker, and a gentleman of thought and culture.

ONLY 50 cts. to hear the great colored orator—FRED. DOUGLASS.

FRED. DOUGLASS.—We are glad to announce that the Lecture of this distinguished colored orator is a fixed fact to come off in Agricultural Hall, on Monday night next. That Fred. Douglass has talent, few will deny. As an orator the N. Y. Independent ranks him third of the present time. To any who have the least desire to hear him, we say go—for this is probably the most convenient and perhaps the only opportunity that will soon again be given. Without doubt, next Monday evening will see the largest audience in Agricultural Hall that has ever been gathered there. Report says that our Hanover neighbors expect to charter a car for the occasion. Let them come! Though, perhaps, they had better send word beforehand. The admission fee has been placed at the nominal sum of 50 cts., and those who would secure seats must do so early, for we are assured that tickets for no more than can be comfortably seated will be issued.

FAIRFIELD.—A friend writes us that the new School House in course of erection in Fairfield is fast approaching completion. The second floor will be occupied this week by the school, under charge of its able and efficient teacher Mr. P. Kready. It is a brick building two stories high, with one room on each floor capable of accommodating 40 pupils. The contractor, Mr. Joseph Smith, deserves great credit for the rapid and good style in which it is put up. Credit is also due the School Directors for their untiring efforts in pushing forward the work to an early completion. It is an ornament to the town, as it is also a credit to the community in which it is located.

Mr. George W. Wortz has also just finished a handsome two story brick house, in the East end of the town. There are other improvements of lesser note, which shows that the spirit of improvement is in Fairfield, as well as in others portions of Adams county.

MISSIONARY.—The exercises in Christ (Lutheran) church of this place, on Sabbath evening last, were unusually interesting. Mr. S. P. Carnell, one of the Students in the Theological Seminary, was recently ordained at a special meeting of the West Pennsylvania Synod, at York, and set a part for the Mission work, it being his purpose to take charge of the Muhlenburg Mission on the western coast of Africa. As Mr. Carnell expects a daily summons to sail, the exercises on Sabbath evening were in the nature of farewell services, and very impressive. The pulpit and chancel were occupied by nine Ministers of the Gospel, including Rev. C. A. Stork of Baltimore, and Rev. Morris Officer of Ohio—the latter being the founder of the Muhlenburg Mission some ten years ago. Rev. Dr. Brown, of the Theological Seminary, conducted the exercises, Rev. Mr. Bridenbaugh making the opening prayer, followed by an interesting address by Rev. Mr. Officer, in which at some length he detailed the origin, aim, and practical workings of the Mission. Mr. Carnell was then introduced to the congregation and gave a brief statement of the reasons which had led him to consecrate himself to the Mission work, invoking the sympathies and prayers of his Christian brethren. Mr. P. M. Bickel, on behalf of Mr. Carnell's classmates, and Mr. H. S. Cook, on behalf of the Theological students, in brief and creditable addresses, tendered to the Missionary the assurances of their fraternal regard and Christian sympathy in the self-denying but noble labors he was about to assume. After a few pertinent closing remarks by Dr. Brown the congregation united in prayer, led by Rev. Mr. Stork. The congregation was large and evidently deeply interested.

HOTEL COMPANY.—A Company has been organized and a charter obtained from the Legislature for the purpose of erecting a Hotel at the Lithia Springs. A meeting of the Company was held an evening or two since, at which several gentlemen from New York, Philadelphia, and other places, were present and participated in the proceedings—among them the distinguished architect, John Frazer, of Philadelphia. These gentlemen manifested great interest in the enterprise and expressed the utmost confidence in its success. It is understood a large amount of the stock of the Company will be subscribed by some of them as soon as the plans are arranged and active measures determined upon. It is proposed to build a Hotel, first class in every respect; the front to be 350 feet by 44 feet, with a wing 110 by 44 feet; three stories high, with French roof, to be constructed of the brown stone found on the ground. Committees were appointed to canvass for additional stock subscription and to procure plans and specifications. As this is an enterprise in which all our citizens, and especially the business men, are deeply interested, it is hoped that all will feel disposed to aid in it so far possible.

REVERSED.—In the case of the Trustees and Church Council of the St. John's Lutheran Congregation of Littlestown vs. Rev. Samuel Henry, which, by reason of the peculiar circumstances surrounding it, has excited a good deal of interest and feeling, the opinion of Judge FISHER was filed yesterday morning. The proceedings originated before Esq. BISHOP, of Littlestown, under the Lien Iord and Tenant act, who claimed to have jurisdiction, gave judgment for the Plaintiffs and issued a writ to dispossess. The proceedings before the justice were certioraried on the ground of want of jurisdiction, &c. Counsel for Plaintiffs moved to quash the writ of certiorari for reasons assigned. The case was fully argued at the recent Argument Court. Judge FISHER, in his opinion filed yesterday, over-rules the motion to quash—sustains the certiorari for want of jurisdiction in the justice, and reverses the proceedings. He declines to award restitution of the property on the ground that the defendant has since ceased to minister to the congregations interested, having accepted a call from a congregation in New Jersey and removed from Littlestown.

SURRENDER.—We have received an interesting account of a demonstration at the Methodist Episcopal Parsonage, at Flintstone, Allegheny county, Md., on New-Year's eve, in the shape of a Donation visit, and the "surrender" of Rev. A. J. Bender (the Pastor) and family to the invading forces. Mr. B. was recently on the Gettysburg circuit, and has many friends here who will be glad to learn that the "surrender" was made with good grace, the terms of capitulation offered by the besiegers being of the most magnanimous character—nothing more or less than that they should be permitted to deposit in the parsonage sundry mysterious barrels, boxes, packages, and baskets, which, on investigation, were found to be filled with flour, catables, &c., including a pile of Greenbacks, a handsome purse of small change for Mr. B's little boy, and other evidences of good will. Kind speeches were made, a collation served up, and the evening passed pleasantly, leaving the Pastor under obligations to his flock for their kind greetings and substantial evidences of good will.

F. & P. L. RAILROAD.—On the 4th inst. the following gentlemen were elected officers of the Frederick and Pennsylvania Line Railroad Company: President, John Loats; Directors, J. A. Ritter, Lewis Brunner, Wm. H. Falconer, A. W. Eichelberger, Wm. Rinedollar, John Sifford, P. B. Kunkel; Treasurer, D. J. Markey; Counsel and Attorney, Jas. McSherry, Jr.

The Hanover Branch Railroad Company is actively urging this enterprise, as a feeder to their own road, it being their intention to connect at Littlestown. We notice in the Frederick papers a statement of the gross receipts of the Hanover Branch Railroad during the past year, amounting to $77,239 34. The exhibit is accompanied by a statement, on the authority of Capt. Eichelberger, that the net profits, after deducting all expenses, would enable the Company to declare a dividend of 30 per cent. for the year.

O. D. CASE & CO., of Hartford, will issue in the month of February a substantial volume called the "American Year Book and National Register for 1869." It is proposed to publish it annually hereafter. It will embrace a general view of the history, politics, finance and commerce of the United States, including every department of the National and State Governments, and a short account of foreign countries. In brief, it is an encyclopedia of American information—a book of reference valuable to the teacher, businessman and the politician. Great labor has been expended in its preparation, and its statements are reliable. It is to be sold by local and traveling agents.

WE have received from the publishers the Tribune Almanac for 1869. It contains a complete account of the elections of 1868, and the electoral vote of each State, at the last and several preceding Presidential elections; a condensed account of the Impeachment and trial of Andrew Johnson; of the National Conventions, Nominations and platforms of the respective parties; letters of the rival candidates; members of the XLth and also of the XLIst Congress, &c., &c. Though very compact, this is the fullest annual compilation of Election Statistics yet published.

HORRIBLE DEATH.—Tabitha T. Croffer, a girl eleven years of age, residing with her aunt, Margaret Croffer, at No. 97 Clinton street, New York, on Monday evening last, about ten o'clock, was engaged in filling a lamp with kerosene old, purchased of Samuel Shoonmacher, No. 494 Grand street, when the mixture exploded, and in a moment she was was in flames. She rushed into the hallway, where a man threw a quilt around her and succeeded in stifling the flames, but not until she had been so horribly burned that she died of the injuries within a few days.

THE MORNING GLORY.—Col. C. H. BUEHLER has received a large assortment of these famous base-burning Stoves, which on the score of economy, cleanliness, easy management, and general utility stand unrivalled and defy competition. The great demand for them last season taxed the capacity of the Manufacturers to meet the demand. They are much improved and will doubtless ere long take the place of all other stoves for parlor, office store and shop. Call and look at them, at the Wareroom on corner of Carlisle and Railroad street, opposite the depot.

Also, on hand a full assortment of the best varieties of COOKING STOVES, including the Spear, Noble Cook, Waverly, Oriental, Washing, Barley Sheaf, Prince Royal, Royal Cook, Excelsior, &c. &c., all WARRANTED to be good bakers. If not satisfactory, they can be returned and the money refunded. Also, a large assortment of Hollow Ware and Tin Ware, Doty's Washing Machine and Universal Wringer. Call and examine. tf

A SURPRISE.—We were astonished the other day at the number of persons we met on the streets, carrying packages of Dry Goods, Queensware, &c., and upon inquiring, found they had all come from Dubbora's, corner of the Square and Carlisle street. He seems to have created quite an excitement with the low prices at which he is now selling goods. Give him a call before you make your purchases. tf

ALL KINDS OF JOB WORK.—Having largely added to our facilities for Job Printing, we are now enabled with the aid of our Campbell Power Press, Gordon Jobber, and Hand Presses, to turn out promptly all kinds of Printing, from the smallest Card to the largest Poster, including Pamphlets, Speeches, Catalogues, Circulars, Programmes, &c. With our new Job Press,

HOUSEKEEPERS, and all others wanting anything in the house-keeping line, will do well to call at Col. C. H. BUEHLER'S extensive Ware-room, near the Passenger depot, on Carlisle street, who has on hand a very large assortment of Stoves of the best manufacture, Cooking, Parlor, Office, and Chamber Stoves, for wood or Coal; also Hollow Ware, Tin Ware, Japan Ware, Britannia Ware, Bird Cages, and a general assortment of Kitchen utensils. Also Coal and Lumber of all kinds. tf

PROBLEM.

A traveler leaves Gettysburg at eight o'clock on Monday morning, and walks towards Baltimore at the rate of three miles an hour. Another traveler sets out from Baltimore at four o'clock on Monday evening, and walks towards Gettysburg at the rate of four miles per hour. Now supposing the distance to be sixty miles, where on the road will they meet? S.

PEACH CULTURE.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—When we wrote the short article on the peach culture which appeared in your paper a few weeks ago, we thought a general detail of their cultivation would be too lengthy for your columns.—Our wish was to awaken an interest in the motto, thinking it was much needed, as many are overlooking one of the greatest natural resources of their farms. There are abundant instances of single trees and even large numbers which have had accidental protection from the peach worm, and others that have had such care as effectually prevented injury by them, and at a cost that was paid four fold for the laborr. There are still some volunteer trees in favorable locations struggling against their enemies and producing fruit nearly every year, through small and of inferior quality, compared with what can be done with the right kind of attention. The location of such fruitful trees would be a safe guide in choosing sites for orchards. We do not pretend to deny that the peach growing districts are much narrowed down from former years, by causes beyond our control. That a large portion of Adams county and particularly the South Mountain region has so far escaped those fatal influences is plain to every intelligent observer. Frost of sufficient severity to destroy the crop is rare and every other condition of climate and soil congenial to the peach exists. The success attending the lame efforts so far shown us would naturally tend to lead the inexperienced to the conclusion your correspondent has arrived at, namely that success is simply an impossibility; but we would ask him to remember that latterly they will not grow themselves—as fact we have yet scarcely realized, judging from the present system of cultivation, and that in the best peach districts the business is in its infancy. The very careless manner in which the propagation of the peach has been and is conducted in its present degenerated condition, is a fit subject for the thinking horticulturist to ponder well for the much needed reform.—To grow large luscious peaches we must till the ground, is now an established fact. Ashes, lime, and salt (the latter in moderate quantity), are very beneficial, and in many soils stable manure is necessary, but no amount of manuring will compensate for good cultivation. To prevent the peach worm from doing injury is the great matter and, as we said in the former, article is not a very hard thing to do. The eggs of the insect or beetle are deposited on the outside of the bark near the surface of the ground.—The young grub appears in 10 days to two weeks; they gradually eat their way under the bark and grow to their full size in 4 to 6 months. The eggs and young grub are easily destroyed by a weak salt brine, to which add enough soap to make a pretty strong suds—it is made more effectual if boiling hot—poured slowly around the trunk in proportionate quantity of about 1 pint to a full grown tree, once a month during summer. With one pretty effectual search in the fall for any that may escape no serious injury need be feared. In most cases our so called peach growers are content to examine their trees once a year, and oftener than not it is neglected 1, 2 and 3 years, long enough to make the destruction complete. C.

RESOURCES OF PENNSYLVANIA.—A school book for Pennsylvania has recently been published, which properly devotes attention to the present condition of this great commonwealth. From it the New York Tribune makes the following extract:

A large portion of this volume is wisely given to the Industrial progress of Pennsylvania. Not merely are the successive stages in the progress of settlement and population westward and northward from Delaware Bay clearly marked, but the infancy and growth of Iron-making; the discovery of Anthracite Coal, with the steps whereby the use of that fuel, for years deemed impracticable, was introduced and extended, until 365 tons mined in 1820 had swelled to 12,650,671 tuns in 1867. So with the Bituminus Coal of her Western counties—she having 1,305 square miles of the latter to barely 470 of the former. Her production of Pig Iron, begun in 1720 in Chester county, has been increased until it amounted last year to 839,496 tuns. Pennsylvania is first among our States in the production of both Coal and Iron, and second only to Massachusetts in the range and extent of her manufacturing industry. She has 972 miles of canals, which cost $38,650,307, and 3,097 miles of completed railroads, which cost about $250,000,000—being foremost of all the States except possibly Illinois in railroads, and before all but New York in canals. The general sobriety and dilligence of her people, her central position, the extent and value of her internal resources, her substantial wealth and great facilities for intercommunication, assure her a steady growth and a commanding position.

MARRIED WITHOUT GLOVES.—A few days since a young gentleman and young lady appeared at the parsonage of an eminent clergyman of this city, for the purpose of having their respective destinies united in the holy bonds of matrimony. Everything being ready, the clergyman aforesaid was about to proceed with the ceremony, when the young lady discovered that she was minus her kid gloves, so necessary on such occasions; whereupon she requested her affiancee to hasten to a store and procure the indispensable kids, telling him to "be in a hurry or she might change her mind."—The clergyman, witnesses, and intended bride waited some time for the return of the youth with the gloves; he didn't come.—They waited longer, and still he didn't come. They waited longer, and still he failed to put in an appearance. The matter at last becoming really serious and alarming, the clergyman took his hat and proceeded post haste in search of the truant lover, whom he found, after a diligent search and many inquiries, quietly seated on the veranda of the Park House, with his feet elevated on the back of a chair, puffing a cigar. On being asked to explain his singular conduct, he carelessly remarked that he "was waiting to see if she was going to change her mind." They were married, however, at last, after two hours delay.—Ottawa (Ill.) Republican.

GENERAL Lovell H. Rousseau died at New Orleans on the 8th ult. He was born in Kentucky, August 4, 1818. At the outbreak of the late war he volunteered his services to the Government, and served with great distinction during the continuance of the struggle. He was afterwards elected to the House of Representatives, and finally resigned his seat on account of a vote of censure passed upon him for assaulting Mr. J. Grinnell for the words spoken in debate. He subsequently disgraced himself by following President Johnson in abandoning the Republican party, and was rewarded therefor by a Brigadier Generalship.

TALKING of the education question, a traveller observed that as he was walking on one occasion under the arcade of the Horticultural Gardens, looking at the works of art displayed there, he came upon two well-dressed ladies, examining a statuette of Andromeda, labelled, "Executed in terra-cotta." "Executed in Terra Cotta!" says one; "whose is that?" "I am sure I don't know," returned the other; "but I pity the poor girl, wherever it was."

AN eccentric clergyman lately said in one of his sermons that "about the commonest proof we have that man is made of clay is the brick" so often found in his hat."

AYER'S
HAIR VIGOR
FOR THE RENOVATION OF THE HAIR.
The Great Desideratum of the Age.

A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy, and effectual for preserving the hair. Faded or gray hair is soon restored to its original color and the glass and freshness of youth. Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always cured by it use. Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands scirrhosed and decayed. But such as remain can be saved for useful uses by this application. Instead of soiling the hair, with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but no harm it. If wanted merely for a nothing else can be found so desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not s il white cambric, and yet lasts longer on the hair, giving it a rich glossy lustre and a grateful perfume.

HAIR DRESSING,
